Jaycees Sponsor Religious Film Here June 11

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, of which Emory Davis is president, will bring the technicolor motion picture of "Oberammergau and the Passion Play" here for one showing on Saturday, June 11 at Boyd High School auditorium at 8 p. m. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

An advance showing for ministers only, will be held Saturday afternoon, May 28, at 3 oclock in the Chamber of Commerce, office. There will be no admission for this special showing.

The picture is non-denominational and filmed in English dialogue. It has a musical background furnished by a 65 piece symphony orchestra and a chorus of 100 voices. The picture will be shown at the High School Auditorium on a wide screen with high fidelity sound.

"Oberammergau and The Passion Play" is a reverent presentation of the story of Jesus from manhood to the Ascension. The film follows Christ through the period of teaching, healing the sick, lame and blind and comforting the oppressed, to the last supper. Then follows the ordeals which led to Calvary, the sorrowful burial, the resurection and the Assension.

The film is presented so that it may reach countless hundreds of otherwise might not feel the inspiration of the Bible. It is in two parts; the first, a travelogue describing the beginning of the Passion Play, and the second the Play itself.

Oberammergau is a city in Bayaria, Germauy, where the original Passion Play was staged. The first play was in 1634 in commemoration of a vow made by the village in habitants that if God would relieve their village of a plague, they would express their gratitude in a devout presentation of the Passion week of Christ. This has been presented every decade since with few exceptions, due to war and has become world - famous down through the centuries.

The villagers are very devout in their daily lives and many almost live the parts they have in the play and the church.

The art of wood carving is the principal business of the village and as far back as 1520 the historical Volhamam reported the craftsmen of Ammergau were so skilled they could carve scenes of the Passion of Our Lord that would fit into a nutshell. Since the Middle Ages their wood carvings have filled chapels and churches all over Bavaria.

Many of Germany' some beautiful and cultural landmarks are near Oberammergau. These include the Linderhoff Castle built at a cost of between ten and fifteen million dollars by King Ludwik. Its many valuable decorations are under constant guard including a large solid gold peacock. Ludwig entertained many celebraties here and it is said operative composer Richard Wagner composed several of his great operas while a house guest at the castle. Also nearby is the famous monastary at Etow founded by Ludwig and the church of Reece considered to be the finest in all Bavaria.

All the aforementioned scenes will be included in the travelogue and many more of interest and beauty. The entire program is in color.

THE HOME TOWNERS
THE GREEN LIGHTS ARE ON IN McKINNEY AND COLLIN COUNTY

▶ IN SATURDAY'S Daily Courier-Gazette, Your Home Towners discussed the possibility of passing a strict ordinance on "Traveling Carnivals" playing in McKinney. Many business men have called us saying this should be done. Now Your Home Towners are not saying that all people traveling with carnivals are undesirable but they do bring a lot of undesirable people with them. One Druggist told Your Home Towners that last week more people wanted to buy "PAREGORIC" than in many, many months. District Attorney Dwight Whitwell stated that several cases of people losing money on "gip gambling" were reported. Now if we are going to permit this in McKinney, we might as well take the lid off, "AND AT LEAST LET OUR OWN GAMBLERS" take the boys in and keep the money at home. But to this we say a BIG NO—NO—NO! Now this problem is one strictly up to the City Commission of McKinney. They can and should pass an ordinance, making rules and regulations so strict that it would be next to impossible for a "TRAVELING CARNIVAL" to come to McKinney.

▼ ▼ ▼

▶ YOUR HOME Towner was down in Plano recently and talking to one of Plano's leading citizen he remarked: "You and your papers have been fighting for the Auditorium in McKinney for some time. Don't the people realize that the more people that come to McKinney, 'The More Money They Spend'." Yes, we certainly do, Mr. Plano Citizen, and we hope some day in the very near future that we will wake up and do something about this present non-usuable coliseum and convert it into a usuable Auditorium.

▼ ▼ ▼

▶ STARTING YESTERDAY we are running a series of stories, "Inside Baseball" for "Little Leaguers." If you are a baseball fan you will find them most interesting. Turn to the "Sports Page" today and keep up with the series of articles.

▼ ▼ ▼

▶ DOWN AROUND Johnson Furniture Company which is run by Choice McClure and Wilbur Thompson, they are going to put the "Big Pot in the Little Pot" this Friday and Saturday. The reason, they are celebrating their 16th Birthday of doing business in "Big Collin County." In Wednesday's Daily Courier-Gazette and Thursday's Weekly Democrat-Gazette there will be a special "Johnson Furniture Company Section." They are going to give away a lot of wonderful things during their two day event so don't fail to read the section and above all don't fail to go by and visit with them.

▶ YOUR HOME Towners have discussed with a number of merchants in McKinney the possibility of passing a strict ordinance on "Travelling Carnivals" Playing McKinney. Now don't get the idea that Your Home Towners are "kill joys" because, on the contrary, we love to have fun and believe that our people are entitled to high class fun and entertainment.

Carnivals, traveling shows, etc., take a lot of money out of the community and very seldom leave anything to speak of. A lot of times these shows come to a town under the auspices of this and that organization.

Strick rules and regulations should be enforced and before they set up for business we should know something about who they are and where they have shown before. A heavy bond should be required and a heavy fee charged for their operation in the city limits. Your Home Towners would like to have comments from our merchants as well as our citizens in general on this subject as we believe that something definite should be done about it.

▼ ▼ ▼

▶ THE BALL started rolling this week when Mayor Bill West and the City Commission asked the Veterans Hospital for information regarding the leasing of the recreational facilities at the Hospital. If this ever becomes a reality it will be one of the most forward moves we have made in a half a century. This section of Your Home Towners has had the pleasure of presenting a petition to many citizens, asking that we take the area over, underwriting a portion of the first year's operation. It has proven one thing, "McKinney folks are ready to go" on anything that will build a better community.

"Return Something To The Soil--Or The Soil Will Turn Against You"

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS — of — THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

Flood prevention structures were inspected recently by members of the Collin Soil Conservation District Board and representatives of the Soil Conservation Service. These structures consist of 14 flood detention resarvoirs and 9 drop structures, completed in the District to date.

J. H. Johnson and Bob Lewis of the Soil Conservation Service Flood Prevention section met with supervisors John Wells, and George Webb and B. C. Wood to discuss plans for maintenance of these structures. The District accepted these structures and assumed responsibilities for maintenance practices on them.

"All structures were in good condition and have been maintained by the cooperator for the most part as planned," stated John Wells, Chairman of the Board, "however some minor items of maintenance are needed, such as grazing control additional fencing, and mowing for weed cotrol, "Contacts will be made on these," he added.

King Ranch bluestem is producing satisfactory grazing during dry years on the John Myers farm, two miles north of Bloomdale.

Myers states that the 40 head of cattle he kept on this grass for over two months during the winter received no supplemental feeding of any kind. Even though the K. R. bluestem had been frost-killed, his beef cattle ate in readily and stayed in good shape.

Myers started planting K. R. Bluestem on some eroded cropland in 1950 after he had become a cooperator with the Collin Soil Conservation District. He planted the seed with a box type fertilizer distributor and disced them into the soil lightly, following the suggestion of Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the District. The second or third year after the grass was established Button clover was over seeded lightly on these areas. In the future, as well as improving the quality of forage.

Myers stated that he believes K. R. is as good a grazing grass for dry years as any he has seen. He also praises the soil-holding and soil-building properties of K. R. Bluestem on land which has been damaged by erosion

HOUSEHOLD INSECT CONTROL

Warm weather is increasing the job of household insect control.

Homemakers will get more effective control by using a combination of space nd surface sprays, according to Extension home management specialists.

Spacespray including the so-called aerosols, are released in the air and kill active insects quickly. But space sprays are not likely to reach insects in crannies and hiding places.

Surface sprays are applied to walls or other surfaces and allowed to dry. These sprays leave an invisible film of insecticide effective for months in killing insects which crawl over the treated area.

WHEAT VOTE SET

Texas wheat farmers will join with the nation's growers June 25 to decide in a national referendum whether marketing quotas will continue in effect for their 1956 crop. The State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee urges Teas purchasers to participate in the vote.

"Under the present surplus situation, we are required to proclaim marketing quotas," Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson said.

"We will have almost as much wheat in the total supply after harvest this year as we had a year ago. In other words, we will have enough wheat to take care of all our domestic and export needs has said that wheat is one of the major problems facing the Department of Agriculture this year.

Any producer in commercial areas who will plant more than 15 acres of what for harves as grain in 1956 is eligible to vote in the referendum. Twothirds of the vote must favor marketing quotas before they can be put into effect.

Local voting places for the June 25 balloting will be announced for each county.

The available supply of wheat for the 1955-56 marketing year is 66 percent above the considered "normal supply." The Secretary must call for marketing quotas when the normal supply exceeds 20 percent.

In the referendum last summer, 73.3 percent of the farmers voting approved the quotas.

East Collin Farm Yields 36,000 Pounds Of Button Clover

Button clover yielded 36,000 pounds green weight per acre on Jess Ponder's farm North of Farmersville. This is considered an outstanding yield according to Soil Conservation Service technicians from Farmersville who made the clipping.

For green manure, this crop would equal about 900 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre: a value of $38.25. The total cost of putting in the crop was $12.25 per acre.

Three hundred pounds of 5-10-5 per acre were applied before planting the clover. Ponder believes in "planting enough seed" too. In this case, it was about 12 pounds per acre.

Ponder, who is a cooperator with the Collin Soil Conservation District, says, "I'm well satisfied with button clover." He has other conservation crops in mind. This fall he plans to plant his bottomland in Fescue grass and button clover for winter pasture.

UNUSUAL ....

Seen About Town

By CAPT. ROY F. HALL

I have always been amused when I see one of those corny cartoons of a missionary being boiled in a big pot by canibals in the South seas. No more of that. From now on those things will only arouse a deep feeling of mutual sympathy in me. I attended the graduation exercises last Friday night in the Boyd Hi auditorium.

The Bird of Paradise shrubs are in full bloom now, and are very showy over the city. Its botanical name is Poinciana Gilliesii, and it belongs to the senna family. It is a semi-tropical plant, being a native of the El Paso area. Remove the old wood and it will bloom all summer.

John McNeil has two pair of starlings nesting in a sycamore tree where he lives at 601 West Hunt. The starlings drove off some woodpeckers that had drilled the holes in the tree, and took over. This is the first time I have ever heard of these Northern birds nesting in this vicinity, as, up to now, they have been winter visitors, going back North in the spring. They are possibly the forerunners of many more to come in the next few years. They can drive off all our native birds except the mocking bird. Our songster holds his own with them.

Arthur Mahill from near Anna saw a good-sized cardboard box in the road, coming to McKinney Saturday, and told his wife, "Watch me make it pop." Arthur hit the box making about fifty. There was a pop, but it was Arthur's left front tire. The box had contained about two dozen empty whiskey bottles. Arthur said he never saw such a mess in his life, including his tire.

According to old signs, this will be a good corn year. The old belief is that when leaves are heavy on the trees, corn will be heavy in the shuck. Trees are loaded with leaves, so much that they will do little growing this year. Strange to say, a heavy mass of leaves stunts a tree's growth for the season, and they have a mass of them now.

Met an old friend, Will Menchew, from Grapevine Wednesday. Will used to live North of town, but works at North American now. He asked me to go in a certain restaurant with him and have a lemonade. We went. We got no lemonade. The barkeep didn't know how to make it, and said he had no lemons anyway. I was glad of it; who drinks that stuff nowadays anyhow? Remember the old barkers at the circuses calling out, "Red lemonade, made in the shade and stirred with a spade." Times change. Will hasn't.

The Old Interurban Association is holding its 4th annual picnic at Finch Park on June 5, an all-day affair with dinner on the ground. This is a unique association; no other like it, so far as known, in the nation. All those who worked at any time for the old interurban line are automatically members, and are urged to attend and bring lunch.

The fad school children developed just before school was out is highly dangerous. This consists of drawing in a full lungful of air and allowing another child to squeeze him until he faints. This operation cuts the blood off from the brain and the youngster passes out cold. The greatest danger lies in the possibility of a skull fracture when the child is released and falls. There is a chance too, that the brain cells could be damaged.

Ross Mantooth And Daughter Show Prize Winning Jerseys

Ross Mantooth and daughter, Miss Barbara Mantooth have exhibted some of their Jerseys at dairy shows this Spring, receiving a blue ribbon on each animal shown. They had exhibits in Dallas, Grayson and Collin County and the Northeast Texas Dairy Show in Sulphur Springs, recently, the latter being one of the outstanding shows of the kind in the state.

Miss Mantooth had the grand champion of the junior show in Grayson County, receiving a plaque from Arthur Dietrich of Dorchester who is president of the Texas Jersey Cattle Club, for this honor. Mr. Mantooth placed the grand champion female in the Collin County Dairy show early this month, and the junior champion female at the Northeast Teas Dairy Show. His daughter won second place in shomanship at Sulphur Springs.

The Mantooth heard of Jerseys is one of the best in this section of the state as may be noted from the many winnings the annimals always receive when exhibited at shows and fairs throughout the state.

Dr. Hayes Addresses Graduating Class

The auditorium of Boyd High School was filled to capacity for Commencement exercises of the graduating class Friday night. Dr. Bascom B. Hayes, of the Texas Education Agency, was the principal speaker.

One of the highlights of the evening was announcing honor students by Earl Slaughter principal. Miss Modean Lafon, daughter of Mrs. Flora Lafon of this city, had the highest average in the class, of 95.82. She was also high for girls. Alfred Johnston received high honors for boys with a 94.51 average.

Students receiving honorable mention were Kate Tom Staples, Jo Anne Dungan, Bill Dunn, Mitzi Majors, Bobby Winders, Barbara Scott, Pat Bell, Ann Dickson, Dorothy Gaskill and Barbara Lindsey.

The students, in traditional cap and gown, marched into the auditorium to a reserved seciton. Mrs. W. R. Hollis played the processional and recessional.

The High School Chorus, directed by George McCoy sang "The Lord's Prayer" and also gave the benediction in song. Rev. T. W. Sisterson gave the invocation.

Following the inspiring address by Dr. Hayes, diplomas were presented to the members of the class by Dr. C. J. Hicks Jr., member of the board of trustees.

Dr. Hayes' address was to the point, and often illustrated with quotations from great men of history. Some of the points brought out are as follows:

THE FOUR-SQUARE MAN

"Just as teachers classmates, and parents are constantly rating or evaluating you on your achievements and failures, the people with whom you associate after you leave these halls will be "passing" or "failing" you! There is no escape for our rating system! It is well that this is true for we in America believe in free competition in our private enterprise system.

"This being true, let us consider together the four sides of this composite man or woman who will surely be rated. The total individual is many-sided—a polygon instead of a square, but, in order that we may examine just a few of the many characteristics of men and women I have chosen to speak to you about these four:

1. The rational, or thinking side.
2. The active, doing side.
3. The personal relationship side.
4. The spiritual side.

"Psychology teaches us that we come into this world as reflexive, sub-cortical controlled beings. true, it is not long until the instinctive and reflexive begin to be replaced by thinking, rationally controled responses—we take on the traits of the human personality. Ultimately, how we think and what we think controls what we do and what we say. In the end, thought rules the world. There are times when impulses and passions are more powerful, but they soon expand themselves; while mind, acting constantly is ever ready to drive them back and work when their energy is exhausted.

"Lord Channing once said: All that a man does outwardly is but the expression and completion of his inward thought. To work effectually, he must think clearly; to act nobly, he must think nobly. Intellectual force is a principal elements of the soul's life, and should be proposed by every man as the principal end of his being.

"As we develop our powers of rationalizing, we began to discriminate, to weigh, to value the expressed thoughts of others. It is well that we think in terms of cause and effect and consequence. In weighing the thoughts of others, we ask these questions:

1. Why did he say this?
2. What basis or hypothesis exists for it?
3. What does my experience prove in this situation?
4. If I accept it what effect will it have on me? On my family? On my friends? On my soul?

"As the great German philosopher, Goethe, once said: All truly wise thoughts have been thought already thousands of times; but to make them truly ours we must think them over again honestly, till they take root in our personal experience.

"There are not many original thinkers. We do not produce Einsteins, Edisons, Platos, Martin Luthers, or Thomas Jeffersons every generation and, no doubt, if we took the time, we could show that the thinking of these great men was influenced by the thinking of others. No man can deny that these and many others learned to analyze the thinking of those who had gone before them, to reject some and accept some, and in so doing each developed his own philosophy—his way of thinking.

"An idle brain is the devil's workshop."

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

How will you think? What will you think?

THE ACTIVE SIDE

Cordell Hull, one of our truly great Secretaries of State—the one in office at the time of Pearl Harbor—while discussing the proposals brought to Washington by the representatives of Imperial Japan, remarked: "I am more interested in what a man does, than what he says."

The Great English writer Boic summed in this short statement: The greatest events of an age are its best thoughts. Thought finds its way into action. Remember you have not a sinew whose law of strength is not action: not a faculty of body, mind, or soul, whose law of improvement is not energy. In activity we must find our joy as well as glory; and labor, like everything else that is good, is its own reward. The reactions of men are the best interprets of their thoughts. Good thoughts, through God accept them yet toward men are litle better than good dreams except they be put in action. Doing is the great thing. For if, resolutely, people do what is right, in time they come to like doing it.

The immortal Shakespeare put the though we wish to leave with you on the action side of man" in these lines: All the world's a stage, and all the men and women in it are merely players. They have their exits and their entrances; and one man in his time plays many parts.

THE PERSONAL RELATIONSHIP SIDE

"Let us now direct our thoughts to the third side of man-the personal relationship side. How and what we think, and the way we live if you please how we act—affect our relationships with our parents or brothers and sisters, our friends and all others with whom we associate. "Birds of a feather flock together," is a proverbial statement. I learned it as a child from my mother and I have observed its truth many times in my experience.

"One writer expresses his idea of the best in human relationships in these lines: In the last analysis the entire pattern of my life and belief can be found in the words "Do NOT do ounto others that which you would NOT have others do unto you." To say "Do unto others as you would have others DO unto you" somehow implies bargaining, an offer of favor for favor. But to restrain from acts which you, yourself, would abhor is an exercise in will power that must raise the level of human relationship.

"Nat Holman one of the truly great basketball coaches of all time, took this little poem of Edwin Markham's to guide him in his relationships withe the young people he coached.

"There is a destiny that makes us brothers
None goes his way alone.
All that we send into the lives of others,
Comes back into our own."

"We cannot live in a vacuum. Every day of our rational lives we meet people—talk to them—act with or against them. Of a fact Life is not a one-way street. What I do what I say, even what I think inevitably has a direct effect on my relationships with others. I am certain that in the degree that my attitude owards oherts has given convincing proof of loyaly, sincerity, honesty, courtesy, and airness, I have encouraged in others the same attitude towards me. Respect begets respect, suspicion begets suspecion, hate begets hate. Ie has been well said that "The only way to have a riend is to be one."

"For the most part, I think what ueoule do to us will depend on what they find in us. Life does not consist in holding of good hand but in playing a bad hand well. Newbold Morriss states the Christian point of view concerning human relations thus: "It is for those wo are strong to help the weak; for those who are sound in mind and body to help those afflicted; for those who live in the sunlight to dispel shadows wherever they lengthen. To me, this is what life is all about."

Perhaps the most beautiful description of the frienship—personal relationship—know is found in the Gospel of John:

'Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend.'

THE SPIRITUAL SIDE

"Even if a man thinks straight, acts properly in his relationships with his fellow man, the fourth dimension—the spiritual side—never be neglected. Regardless of how well trained you become; how well your minds are developed in th study of logic, science, and the other many fields of learning; how much material welth you amass; how much power you enjoy; what social position you attain, all will be for naught should you fail to develop spiritually.

'What profieteth a man if he gain the world and lose his own soul?'

Edward R. Murrow quotes Joshseph Fort Newton's creed: 'We must take time ,take pains, have a plan, form spiritual habits, if we are to keep our souls alive; and now is the time to begin. A man to whom religion is a reality, and who knows what is meant by "the practice of salvation," keeps his balance, because the living center of his life is spiritual He cannot be upset, or shaken. The same hard knocks come to him as to others, but he reacts to them by the central law of his life. He suffers deeply, but he goes right on in his kindness and faith. He sees his own shortcomings but he does not give up, because a power rises up, from his spiritual center and urges him to the best."

"This short verse well summarizes the thoughts I would leave you with as you complete your high school careers.

'Four things a man must learn to do
If he will make his life ring true.
To think without confusion clearly.
To act from honest motives purely.
To love his fellow man sincerely.
To trust in God and serve him dearly'."

Admiral's New 24-Inch Television Now In Table Model

By extending the use of automatic production machinery and printed circuits to larger size television models Admiral Corporation has produced a 24-inch table television receiver with printed Robotochassis price at only $239.-95. It is being shown to dealers in this area by Admiral Distributors.

This is the first time that a 24-inch table television receiver with a 335-square inch picture tube has been offered at that price according to Marshall Wells, General Manager.

"Not only is it the lowest price for a receiver of this size," he said, "but the cabinet is more compact than has ever been used before."

Admiral pioneered the use of printed circuits in a major section of a television receiver in July, 1954. Two months later the company disclosd that it had built and was using lectroically-controlled equipment to assemble automatically one-half of its television chassis, Wells said.

Admiral Distributors also has on display a new 24-inch Admiral open face console, a new giant 21-inch open face console and a new Adimar highfidelity console phonograph.

The 24-inch console lists for 299.95, $120 less than the company's previous comparable model Wells said.

The 24-inch console features an "off-the-floor" design which enables the homemaker to dust the floor or vacuum the rug without moving the receiver. It has all the features of the 24-inch table model including removable safety glass, wide range FM sound and a large heavy-duty Alnico speaker. mounted in a tilted baffle board to beam the sound to ear level. The cabinet has brass-tipped tapered ebony legs.

The 21-inch open face console, according to Wells, has the Advance Cascode robot chassis, heavy duty loud speaker in inclined baffle board mountinp, giant 270 square inch 90-degree picture tube and removable safety glass. The cabinet features tapered legs and brass ferrules. The receiver lists for $199.95 in mahogany finish.

The new Admiral high-fidelity console phonograph, Wells said, has a professional type three-speed record changer four position record compensator independent bass and treble tone controls turnover needles and dual speaker system. It is priced at $254.95 in mahogany finish cabinet.

He just this year retired from three years as a director of the Collin County Council of Camp Fire Girls, Inc., and is still active in Boy Scout work.

Civic Leader Is Co-Owner Of Johnson Furniture Company

CHOICE McCLURE

Choice McClure, co-owner of the Johnson Furniture Company, is one of McKinney's most prominent civic leaders. For several terms Mr. McClure served as City Commissioner of McKinney, retiring in April, this year.

He has been in the field of merchandising for a number of years, being associated with the J. C. Penney Company store here for sometime before buying a partnership in the Johnson Furniture Company. J. W. (Wilbur) Thompson is co-owner of the store, the two men having successfully operated one of the city's biggest furniture businesses for some sixteen years.

McClure is past president of the Rotary Club, member of the Retail Merchants Association, Chamber of Commerce and First Baptist Church, all of which he actively represents. He also participates in numerous other organizations which uplift and benefit his home community.

Mr. McClure, his wife, the former Miss Martha Ann Hughston, and their fine young teen-age son, Dan, are popular in social circles also. They take especial pride in their beautiful brick home on Waddill Street as well as the modern furniture business which Mr. McClure actively manages.

New Function, Flexibiilty Found In Furniture Designs

While today's furniture designs offer you greater play for mixing and matching your furniture style selections, a good degree of discrimination in style nevertheless will be necessary. Since your budget is young, and will require thoughtful planning to steady it, you will want to select items that will provide a maximum of utility now.

Two very important features that you'll want in your furniture—after you have satisfied your thirst for beauty—are storage and flexibility. These are important lifelines in your good homemaking operation, which will include comfortable housekeeping and balancing the furniture budget.

Storage is always an important furniture function to consider. No home, large or small, has too much storage space. Good storage strategy will make your home attractive, as well as functional. Storage comes many ways, and is either concealed or obvious. The obvious is easily identified in double and triple dressers, chests of drawers, desks, table drawers and so on.

Concealed stroage in home furnishings has many new guises and will make your home interesting and exciting for both yourself and guests. Dining tables, which accommodate large scale entertaining, are reduceable to wall console size. in the idle console state, the dining table affords greater traffic area and spaciousness to a combined living-dining area, or to the dining room itself. This is storage of a new kind.

Buffets, commodes, and desks, all enter into this storage game of hide and seek.

John Adams was the first Harvard graduate to become U.S. president.

NEW SAMPLE BAR FOR SHOWING RUGS AT JOHNSON'S

The rug section, in the furniture department of Johnson's store, has recently installed a new sample bar which makes display of the rugs much more convenient. Mrs. C. B. Neal, saleslady with the firm for the past nine years, is showing her customers, Misses Nannie and Albert Williams, samples of the new rugs and carpets.

Johnson Furniture Company features wool and cotton rugs and carpets of the Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, and will gladly give estimates to anyone interested in the many beautiful new designs in floor coverings which they carry.

1956 Model Electric Range By Admiral Features Timer

The 1956 Admiral electric ranges, featuring a new automatic electric timer clock, plug-in range top grill, faster-heating surface cooking units and two potional colors are being shown to dealers in this area by Admiral Distributors Corp.

Styled in chrome and non-tarnishing copper-tone trim, the 1956 line consists of three 40-inch and two 30-inch models. One deluxe model in each size is available in sea mist green and primrose yellow, in addition to white.

The three deluxe models again feature exclusive Flex-O-Heat controls for each of the four surface units, according to Marshall C. Wells, General Manager. Flex-O-Heat controls permit dialing any degree heat for any cooking need and compensate for any voltage fluctuation, he added. The standard models have seven-speed rotary switches.

Wells said that a new type automatic electric timer, which also serves as a kitchen clock and 60-minute timer, is a highlight of the deluxe models. On 4EH15 deluxe 40 inch custom model the clock automatically operates both ovens including the rotary roaster, and any portable appliance connected to the appliance outlet. It turns them on and off with only two dial settings, one for "hours to cook" the other for "stop cooking"time. On Model 4EH12 the timer operates oven, appliance outlet, and three position deep well cooker, while on the 30-inch deluxe unit it controls the oven, said Wells.

Available for $39.95 as an optional accessory on all models in Admiral's plug-in flex-o-grill of heavy cast aluminum, Wells said.

It provides an unlimited number of heat settings from 2 to 430 degrees Fahrenheit, permitting the homemaker to dial the exact heat required whatever the griddle cooking need.

The flex-o-grill's automatic thermostat switch control assures desired griddle temperature at all times, said Wells. Equivalent to two extra surface units, the grill's even heat distribution permits cooking on every part with the same results. A recessed well in the back catches excess fat.

The even temperature enables the home maker to bake pancakes, grill sandwiches, hamburgers and chops, and fry bacon, eggs and sausages. The accessory fits in the range storage drawer when not in use.

An elevator broiler rack, which can be raised or lowered to nine different positions without removing food from the rack or from the oven, is a standard feature on the two deluxe 40-inch ranges. Also on these models is Admiral's large-size automatic basting and turning rotary, which is available optionally on all other models for $25.00.

The roaster electrically rotates turkeys, chickens shiskebob or roasts on a barbecue spit inside the oven, cooking juices back into meat and fowl and eliminating the drudgery of bastig and turning them by hand, Wells pointed out. Tny size item from small, hot hors d'oeuvres to a 20 pound turkey, roast beef or ham can be accommodated .When not in use the barbecue spit can be stored in range storage drawer.

While all Admiral ranges contain oversized ovens, Model 4EH15 also contains a second oven 12 inches high, 15 ½ inches deep. Oven signal lights go on and off as thermostat turns heat on and off autotemperaure. Control switches on the back housing are out of reach of small children.

Experts In Laying Hard-Surface Flooring

In Furniture, Variety of Tastes Mix And Match

His furniture ideas and thoughts for their new home will lean toward comfort and relaxation.

Her furniture wants will lean toward beauty, and fashion, and all the other contemporary innovatios.

He's marrying an old-fashioned girl, but he overlooked inquiring about her furniture style preferences.

Statistics say she'll want furniture in Modern styling, exquisite in every detail. She'll also want it to be easy to care for. Statistics also say his furniture taste is traditional. He'll want his furniture roomy and loungy.

He wants it hazard-proof enough to enjoy, but to keep peace in the family, it must also be beautiful.

They can have all this harmoniously, and live happily ever after with furniture that fills both and all needs. Every item of furniture they select today can be a composite of both their tastes and needs.

Color is pleasing and permanent, in traditional and contemporary styles.

Though he leans to traditional styling, he is not averse to color —tasteful colore—in his home.

Up to now, he's been a silent partner in the selection of their furniture. When the bridegroom goes furniture shopping with his bride today however, he will find that new furniture presentations indicate a definite overtone to please the man of the house too.

Indirectly, this silent partner is speaking up. After all, why not, for who would best know what men want in furniture but the designers, manufacturers, and buyers of furniture? And who are they? Men of course!

Choose Your Bridal Furniture Gifts For Use And Beauty

Nothing is sure to be more appreciated by the new bride and bridegroom than something as beautiful as lasting, and as practical as furniture.

They will, of course, have chosen first the larger, essential items leaving the supplementary and occasional items to the last, when the rush of wedding activities has subsided.

With perhaps the exception of the bridal gown, or the honeymoon destination, the bridal couple usually make no secret of wedding plans. The search for an apartment, the first furniture purchases the style of furniture, are all enthusiasticall recounted to friends, or anone willing to lend an ear. This should provide a wealth of gift ideas for their friends faced with the problem of gift shopping.

While it is true furniture items may be mixed and matched stylewise, do not be too radical in your gift selections for the new couple.

Choose your bridal furniture gift with a thought to its usefulness as well as its beauty. Consider how it will coordinate, or cleverly contrast with their choice of furniture, and how it will fit in with their living needs.

Choose it too, for its versatility, and there is much of this in the smaller furniture items, as well as the large rones. Occasional items, to round out and complete the home, are many. The small table, the individual chairs, small benches, chests of drawers serving carts are all convertible and will serve well over a long period of time.

New Homemaking Horizons For The New Homemaker

The bride of June, or of any other month, faces many new thresholds as she changes her status from maid to matron; not the least among them is her task of homemaking.

Life as a homemaker has a different significance than it did a decade or so ago. It has new weight and importance, new promise and fulfillment.

In planning a home today, the bride can look forward to a wider source as a prospective homemaker through a new freedom and ease in the care of her home and home furnishings. She has more time to become a marriage co-partner in a fuller sense of the word, and more time to enjoy her family, as well as care for it. This is due largely to the great assistance she has received from today's innovations in furniture and home furnishings.

New furniture designs offer all the Utopian qualities that every woman dreams of when planning her home. They have fashion function versatility, practicality, and best of all they are easy to maintain. Certainly, the greatest satisfaction will come in the budget, where the furniture dollar realizes greater returns than ever.

Brides, and all other home makers, are presented this year with furniture that will easily change face and pace when the mood or need requires it.

Classic and contemporary are the furniture themes this year. Contemporary needs, designed with classic interpretation, are the fashion; and modern, traditional and provincial styling have all felt this touch. Best of all, fashion has been made to function anew.

Color—new color—is among the most contemporary ideas, and is found even in the most steadfast of traditional styles. It is abundant, attractive, and used in every possible manner and shade. Modern syles are more dramatic in bright red, deep turquoise amethyst, and combinations of pink and black. For traditional and provincial furniture, gentle pastels of blues, greens, grays, yellows and beiges are used predominantly, but occasionally, one sees brilliant Cerulean blue, and Castilian red.

Furniture is dressed with color both on and under the surface. When the more conservative gray beige, and sand tones are used on dresser chest and table surfaces, gay shades of red and blue are used to line drawers.
